EXTRA!—MAN BITES DOG
NEW YORK—Andrew Pelton, 30, of 320 West 29th st, bit his dog Sunday. They were romping on the floor when it happened. In return the dog bit the tip off Pelton's nose, and it was at the hospital that the news came out. All good newspapermen recollect the definition of "news" as expounded by the late Charles A. Dana, Editor of the New York Sun: "If a man bites a dog—that's news."

Income Tax In A Nutshell

WHO? Single persons who had net income of $1,000 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more, and married couples who had net income of $2,500 or more or gross income of $5,000 or more must file returns.
WHEN? The filing period begins January 1 and ends March 15, 1934.
WHERE? Collector of internal revenue for the district in which the person lives or has his principal place of business.
HOW? See instructions on forms 1040A and 1040.
WHAT? Four per cent normal tax on the first $4,000 in excess of the personal exemption and credits. Eight per cent normal tax on the balance of net income. Surtax on net income in excess of $6,000.

Income Tax Don'ts

DON'T prepare your return without first studying the instructions on the form.
DON'T procrastinate. Early assembling of data permits a careful consideration of all tax problems.
DON'T destroy the memoranda from which your return was prepared.
DON'T omit explanation when such information is essential to an intelligent audit. Attach memoranda to your return.

YOUR INCOME TAX No. 1 HOW TO AVOID COMMON ERRORS

The period for the filing of income tax returns covering the calendar year 1933 began January 1 and ends at midnight of March 15. Within this period are filed annually millions of individual income-tax returns, a large proportion of which report income subject to the tax. The latter contain a considerable percentage of errors, which if uncorrected by the audit would result to the disadvantage of the taxpayer. Many are errors of computation easily discovered on the face of the return, which usually is accompanied by a payment of more than the amount of tax due. In other returns it is readily discernible that the taxpayer has failed to take advantage of the personal exemption, credit allowed for dependents, or deductions from gross income to which he is entitled.

To avoid these and other errors, the Bureau of Internal Revenue urges careful reading of the instructions on the forms for filing the returns. Additional information, if needed, may be obtained at the office of a collector of internal revenue, deputy collector, or an internal revenue agent in charge. Also, as a further aid in the preparation of a correct income-tax return for the year 1933, the Bureau has prepared a series of short newspaper articles, of which this is the first, advising the salaried man, wage earner, professional and business man—in fact, every class of individual taxpayer—of his rights, exemptions and privileges as interpreted under the latest regulations, rulings and decisions relating to the income-tax law.

Arlington High Tops Belmont In Ice Game

Byrne and Mee Score for Locals As Team Blanks Belmont — Most of Game Is Slow

By BOB FOREST

After being completely outplayed in the first period and a half of hockey Saturday the Arlington High team came back to blank Belmont in a 2 to 0 game. Belmont forced the issue but as always the Arlington team was slow in getting started and they needed almost the entire second period to show their wares. Al Lane on the defense was quite impressive and although the defense left the net uncovered time after time, Belmont failed to convert. The body checking of Collins and Lane was the feature of the game.

Lax Is Key Man

Jobie Lax was again the key man of the Arlington offense and lost many chances to score by the superb work of the Belmont goalie. His poke checking stopped the Belmont team almost on their own blue line. Al Lane picked up a puck in center ice early in the second period and weaved through two Belmont men to give Byrne a beautiful pass who drove it into the net.

Will Extend Airways Service On Wednesday

Extension of service by Boston-Maine-Central Vermont Airways to include Manchester, N. H., and Burlington, Vt., will be made commencing next Wednesday, Feb. 7, it was announced today by Vice President L. F. Whittemore. Flying time between Boston and Manchester, N. H., will be 30 minutes and between Boston and Burlington 2 hours, and 15 minutes, it was stated.

The extension will make a total of 10 Northern New England cities in Maine, Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire, which will be served by the airways subsidiary of the Boston and Maine, the Central Vermont and the Maine Central railroads.

Extension of the service to include Manchester and Burlington will be a single round-trip daily for the winter schedule, the announcement stated. The plane will leave Burlington at 8 a. m., making stops at Montpelier-Barre at 8.25, White River Jct., at 8.55; Concord, N. H., at 9.30; Manchester at 9.45 and arrive in Boston at 10.15 a. m. The return trip will leave Boston at 2.45 p. m., with arrival in Manchester at 3.15, Concord 3.30, White River Jct., 4.05; Barre-Montpelier 4.35, and Burlington at 5 p. m.

Two sections will be operated on the first trip Wednesday, it was stated, as one of the 10-passenger, tri-motored, heated, cabin planes has already been sold out to residents of the "Queen City" of Vermont desiring to make the initial flight on the line from Burlington. This plane will be operated express to Boston. The second section will make the regular stops.

Fares between Boston and Manchester will be $3.50 one way, and $6 round-trip; and between Boston and Burlington $12 one way, and $22 round trip.

One Arrested In Wild Melee At Town Hall

Protest Meeting of Armenians Has Rousing Climax — Several Injured

A mass meeting of Armenians, protesting the recent assassination of Archbishop Toussaint of New York, was brought to a stirring climax when it broke out in a free-for-all in Robbins town hall late yesterday afternoon.

Stephen Terjelian, of 94 Webster street, was arrested and was to appear in East Cambridge district court today on a charge of disturbing a public assembly. The meeting was fairly orderly for the first part but the several hundred Armenians from this town and surrounding cities were treated to plenty of excitement when the riot broke out.

Selectman George H. Lowe, Jr., who with Selectman Leonard Collins, had been invited to speak at the mass assembly, summoned the police. Sergeant Daniel P. Barry, with a large squad of men, including several reserve officers, waded into the melee and placed Terjelian under arrest. The shouting and punching subsided. The meeting was then re-organized and the more belligerent were told to move on. Small groups gathered outside the hall not mindful of the snowstorm and there discussed the two sides of the story. The meeting was called to protest against a certain group of Armenians, charged with the murder of the Archbishop. Several people were injured slightly in the riot.

Nolan Funeral Is Held Today

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine C. Nolan took place from her late home, 65 Freeman st this morning. A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated in St. Agnes' church at 9 o'clock with many relatives and friends present.

Mrs. Nolan died at her home last Thursday. She was the wife of Robert J. Nolan. Members of St. Agnes' Court, Catholic Daughters of America, of which the deceased was a member attended the services.

Civic Group Holds Rally

Despite a heavy snowstorm, several hundred people attended a rally of the Civic Committee in Ye Lantern yesterday afternoon. John H. Murphy, president of the committee presided and introduced several candidates endorsed by the committee for the next annual election which takes place in March.

Plans for an intensive campaign to elect the Civic Committee slate were outlined and speakers urged listeners to vote the straight ticket. Atty. Albert E. Hughes heads the slate as candidate for selectman.

Believes Town Should Clear Ice For Skating

Arlington, Mass. February 2, 1934

Dear Editor:

This afternoon I sought to have a place cleared of snow on Spy Pond for the benefit of the Arlington skaters. At the present time the snow is about five inches deep and is soft and light; thus it could be removed easily and with small expense to the town. Because the ice is more than a foot thick, there is no question as to its being safe for skating.

Telephoning to one of our Arlington Park Commissioners, I was informed that no provision had been made for the removal of snow from Spy Pond but that money has been appropriated in order that a small rink may be cleared after snow storms for the skaters on Hills Pond.

Everyone knows that Hills Pond is situated in an inconvenient

Daddy Sunshine Club Rules

1. Be kind and helpful to others.
2. Look both ways when crossing streets.
3. Always be kind to dumb animals.
4. Write a letter to Daddy Sunshine, or have Mother or Dad write it for you, every now and then.
5. Try to bring a "Ray of Sunshine" into the lives of your parents and others every day of the week and every week of the year.

These rules are not very difficult for good girls and boys to keep. Most of them are kept by them anyway.

Mail your letters and stories to Daddy Sunshine, in care of this paper. He will answer them in the Daddy Sunshine column.

Write on but one side of the paper, and place your age and address on the letter after your name. Give the day, month and year of your birth.

To join the club all you have to do is promise to keep the rules—and keep them.

HELEN WINS TICKET

Dear Daddy Sunshine:

I am sending you a letter hoping I will win a ticket to the theatre. I have a collie dog and he is brown, black and white. He is a very intelligent dog. When I put my hat and coat on in the morning he knows I am going for the milk and paper. He waits outside the store for me and when I bring out the paper, he takes it in his mouth and brings it home.

I obey your rules and try to do good deeds to others. I feed the little birds every morning. I will close my letter now.

Helen Dyer,

Daddy Sunshine enjoyed reading your letter very much, Helen. It was well and neatly written and interesting. He liked reading about your dog and learning you are keeping the rules. Feeding the birds every morning is indeed a real act of kindness.

He hopes many of the members are doing the same thing, and those who are not will start doing so. Yes, Helen, you win a ticket for the theatre.

LIKES SEWING

Dear Daddy Sunshine:

How did you like the other letter I wrote? I know it wasn't very good. I will write a better one this time. I hardly knew what to say. The first was when I said that you didn't like sewing. I laughed but I'm glad you like 'English.' It is the most interesting subject. But sewing is still better. I like it when I have something to do.

I am making an apron. It is blue with white and pink lines. It is rather pretty.

Well I was glad to see you Daddy Sunshine. You are looking fine. I hope you feel the same way.

Yours truly,
Margaret Hunt

Yes, Margaret, Daddy Sunshine liked your last letter and this one too. Your letters are always interesting. He believes that every little girl should do some kind of sewing. All real girls enjoy sewing and start to learn early in life. It is wonderful how well some can sew. Daddy Sunshine knows your apron will be admired after you have completed it. He is always happy when he hears from you.

SENDS JOKES

Dear Daddy Sunshine:

I haven't written for a long time, as I have been very busy. I have a few jokes to say. Here they are:

Bobby and his Mother were waiting for the train, and his mother said, "What is keeping that train?" "Oh gee, Ma, I hope it isn't the chewing gum I threw on the railroad track."

My brother was right near the stove and my mother said, "What did you do?" "Oh, I just pulled out the turkey to look for the wish bone."

Yours truly,
Eva Sacco

Happy to hear from you again, Eva. Thanks for writing and thanks for the jokes.

Guy Thinks U. S. May Control Banks

Arthur Guy, state bank commissioner, yesterday asked the Legislature to defer making any substantial changes in the banking laws until the course of action to be adopted by the various federal banking agencies with respect to state-chartered banks can be definitely ascertained.

Commenting on the criticism leveled at banks for their charges of 6 per cent interest on mortgage loans he cited the average gross earnings of the banks at 5.14 per cent. Any reduction in interest rates for long term real estate loans, he said, would be reflected in the dividends to depositors.

The commissioner called attention to the Federal legislation passed last year whereby all State banks in the Federal Reserve System automatically participate in the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, while all trust companies, except four non-member trust companies, have been admitted to the temporary insurance fund either by joining the Federal Reserve System or by qualifying through examination by Federal authorities.

The Federal Banking Act further provides in the event that a State trust company participating in the insurance plan is closed it shall be reopened as a national bank.

"This is apparently, by indirection," said Mr. Guy, "the beginning of the unification of the banking system of the country and its supervision by Federal authorities. The Federal Reserve Bank has already put into effect of superceding some of our State banking laws. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation has also indicated by a recent ruling its intent to regulate its member banks. Any general expansion of this procedure will, in effect, supercede State authority over all banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System or of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation."

Bank Interest

Commissioner Guy, commenting upon the criticism leveled at banks for charging 6 percent for money loaned on mortgages, says the average gross earnings of the banks have been 5.14 percent. State taxes and other items of expense lower this percentage still farther, so that when the 3½ percent interest is paid to the depositors the banks have left only a margin of 1.28 percent to take care of overhead and absorb depreciation charges on securities held.

"Any further reduction in the rate of interest for long-term real estate loans," he continued, "will inevitably be reflected in the dividends to the depositors, causing them to seek other investments for their savings and so tend to further tighten bank credit."

Banks Lenient

Commenting upon the relationship between the cooperative banks and distressed home owners during the past year the commissioner said:

"In relieving the distress of the small home owner the cooperative banks have been extremely lenient. Under the law enacted in 1931 cooperative banks were authorized to waive, for temporary periods, monthly payments on shares pledged against real estate loans. As an indication of the extent to which leniency has been carried, these banks now show approximately $29,000,000 in loans on which payments have been waived.

"Borrowers in these banks are also permitted, under certain conditions, to convert their regular cooperative bank mortgages into so-called common form mortgages, thereby relieving the borrowers of the necessity of making monthly payments on the principal. These banks have also extended aid to distressed borrowers by carrying on their books real estate loans aggregating more than $48,000,000 which are in arrears in monthly payments and interest."

No Value

The following poem, "No Value," by George Allan England, well known novelist and Saturday Evening Post feature writer of Bradford, N. H., was inspired, Mr. England explains, "by a shipping clerk writing those words on a receipt he gave me for the body of my niece, aged 18, when I took it on a train for burial."

By George Allan England

He yawned, and laid his cigarette aside,
And on the baggage check grimly stamped: "Body," wrote
Two simple words. Scrawled words, with careless fingers,
Just a note
Of that poor shipment's worthlessness.
She who had died
Two days before, was sunshine, joy and life
To all of us. For eighteen years, her smile
And the warm heart of her, the girlish wife
Had been our earth and heaven.
"Some day, as sweet as a wife,"
(We said) "as she has been a girl." And so we dreamed,

Until the echo of her children's feet, it seemed,
Their laughter, even their tears, grew woven fast
To our life's dream-stuff—golden threads that gleamed
Through years of difficult waiting.
Then Death came. They passed,
Those dreams; and all our prayers and all our hoping.
And so we laid her in her coffin gray and cast
In there, beside her, all our youth;
And, dazed and groping,
Carried her to a silent, sunlit place
Where Autumn oak leaves would be falling.
Left her there,
Who never yet had read the Book of Life—her face
Still pure, still fair.

"No Value." Yes, he wrote that down, and gave Formal receipt. "No Value," as we bore her toward the grave.
Only a girl, with dear vague hopes, half-known,
Who now must fare the untrodden paths, alone—
Dark paths and cold, they seemed, for girlhood hardly grown.

Only a young, dead girl, unwooded, unwed.
"No Value." And the world had ceased to turn;
And all the gold from here to Babylon might burn
To dross, unminded, for we bore our dead.
"No Value." Ah, the deep, long thoughts we knew
And our dim eyes that watched him there, and read!

No value, now, had starlight, dawn or dew,
Sunset or cloud, or the white blaze of noon,
Or Springtime's mantle green, with flowers inwrought,
Or the unfolding loveliness of June,
Or earth or sky, or ocean's tides—how true!

How true he wrote . . . nor guessed that truth, nor thought!

HAPPY DAYS

SEAGOERS welcomed December 5th with as much enthusiasm as landlubbers. The 12-mile limit wavered and in some cases disappeared. And ships flying the Stars and Stripes revealed bars as completely stocked as those of their foreign sisters of the sea.

One of the most advantageously located of all the sea-going bars is this one on the Grace Liner Santa Paula. It is tucked away in a corner of the club where the bridge players and dancers hold forth—not far from the beach deck, where sun bathers and swimmers spend the day. And it has risen from the ranks of the gloomy lower decks to the sun-bathed breeze-swept heights of the promenade deck.

In fact, all the public rooms of the four newest "Santa" ships have been brought "up top" where there is plenty of light and air—a new location which is one of the characteristics of the modern vogue in ship design.

For the comfort of kibitzers the club and bar are provided with a broad, shaded verandah overlooking the beach deck and pool—a comfortable place from which to view the dancing and to watch the goings-on in the swimming pool built into the deck below. When the orchestra is off duty, loudspeakers—cleverly concealed among the deck's decorations—are ready to utter the offerings of the world's leading broadcasting stations.

RETAIL STORE INTERESTS OPPOSE SALES TAX; CONDEMN "EASY WAY"

"The question of a sales tax has again come to the fore, both in national and state legislatures as a factor in the nation-wide attempt to raise funds," Channing E. Sweitzer, Managing Director of the National Retail Dry Goods Association pointed out at a conference held at Association headquarters today. "The Manufacturers' Sales Tax was pigeon-holed in committee in Washington, but the state legislatures, urged on by the Association of Mayors, representing the communities to whom it is proposed that at least part of the proceeds of this tax will be apportioned, have united with the real estate interests to actively campaign for state sales tax legislation."

"This is the drama of 'The Easiest Way'—1934 version," Mr. Sweitzer said. "Communities are faced with huge expenses, unbalanced budgets and heavy bond payments—a legacy from the years of 'delirious Prosperity.' Although students of economics and political science unite almost unanimously in condemning the state sales tax as a method of raising funds, the harassed mayors turn to it as a possible life-saver for their communities—at least for their own administrations. It is much easier to say 'we can raise the money this way' than to cut down expenses, eliminating waste and political favoritism. It is much easier to urge the levying of this new tax than it is to thoroughly analyze all of the city's activities and put them on a really efficient basis."

Should Cut Graft

"The opposition which Mayor LaGuardia of New York is encountering in his attempt to cut out the dead wood, the graft, and the merely ineffective but therefore costly operations, shows the difficulties that will be encountered in any community, large or small, if an honest attempt is made to reevaluate and reorganize the complex activities that have developed through the years of careless and cynical prosperity in the administration of a city's government."

"It is 'the easiest way' to let this problem alone and ask for additional taxes, but the retail stores, upon whom this burden would fall, have had no opportunity to escape this same problem by levying a tax on their customers," Mr. Sweitzer continued. "They have had to rigorously cut down expenses, eliminate waste, and reevaluate all their activities in terms of the lower sales volume of the past years."

"It has not been easy. It has not been pleasant. But it had to be done and in the end it has proved in many ways a 'blessing in disguise.' The elimination of the carelessness and extravagance of the boom years has developed organizations capable of doing their job much more efficiently. It has weeded out many foolish 'frills' that a few years ago threatened to make the distribution costs of the retail industry and unjust burden on the consumer. Communities should do the same thing. In smaller cities, an honest and thorough investigation in most cases would not disclose the spectacular and sensational instances of graft and corrupt practice which have been uncovered in New York by the new administration, but on a smaller scale most cities are honey-combed with grafting officials and sinecure jobs. It is much easier to balance a city's budget by levying an additional tax than by putting the community's house in order so that the raising of these funds is not necessary."

Tax On Retailers

"Advocates of a sales tax urge it as a method of making all consumers 'tax conscious', but in the great majority of cases, it is not possible to pass much of it on to the consumer and it becomes another tax on retailers, who, by dint of their own rigorous pruning of expenses, have been able to survive the depression but who still have no margin of profit with which to pay additional taxes."

"If such a tax includes all the necessities of life, the part passed on falls most heavily on those of limited income—the heads of families, the unemployed who are making their small savings tide them over a period of uncertainty and privation. This, obviously, is a most unjust method of taxation."

If those in the lower income brackets should pay toward the support of government, it would be much better to make the income tax include them. It would be more just and it would accomplish the thing urged as a reason for the sales tax—it would make the host of people with limited incomes 'tax conscious.' But probably no one will ever accomplish this. It would be too unpopular. The real reason why a sales tax is urged is that people will not be conscious that they are paying a tax and so it will not rouse popular resentment against extravagance and inefficiency in government. It will not make the people 'tax conscious' enough to force an honest and efficient administration and yet it will provide funds which will enable the present waste and inefficiency to continue."

"If food, clothing, and other necessities are not included in the tax," Mr. Sweitzer added, "this does away with some of the injustice to consumers, but it necessitates additional bookkeeping and record keeping in stores, which doubles the burden upon the retailer and makes the cost of collection to the government prohibitively light. It also opens up many opportunities for evasion, just as during the war the luxury tax was paid only by the large stores whose books were audited by public accountants, while many small stores paid nothing or only a small percentage of the tax. The luxury tax raised funds which in no way met the expectations of those levying the tax and at the same time placed an unfair burden upon the more responsible retailers."

"The real estate dealers who have for a number of years been most active in urging a sales tax as a means of relieving the taxes on property, should realize by this time that these additional levies do not lighten their burdens. A sales tax dare not exempt any sale of real estate from the same tax on other sales of commodities and services. Whenever funds are available, some 'urgent need' always arises and there is no lowering of the tax rate on real estate. In Illinois, where there is a 2 per cent sales tax, and in California, where there is a 2 1/2% sales tax, the property owners gained little;

the tax spending officials gained a lot."

Real Estate Shortsighted

"Probably the most serious problem of realty dealers is not the burden of taxation, heavy as that may be, but the loss of revenue due to vacancies caused when firms go out of business, leaving vacant stores and throwing out of employment many who, therefore, cannot continue to pay rent or make payments on homes purchased on the installment plan. It is most shortsighted on the part of real estate interests to urge the passage of a sales tax instead of joining with those who seek to eliminate waste and corruption in government, and to rejoin the administration of their cities, counties, states, so that the tax burden can be lightened for all."

"Stores did not work out their economics individually, but cooperated in making studies of ways in which expenses could be lowered and efficiency increased," Mr. Sweitzer concluded. "Just so, municipalities and county governments should join forces to work out more effective and less costly methods. It would be more far-sighted if the real estate men and the mayors would get behind legislation to bring about such cooperative studies and changes needed in statutes to establish the

"THE HUMAN PINCUSHION"—AND OTHERS

In Brooklyn, N. Y., recently, the cards turned against Frederico Buono, notorious claim faker, nationally known among casualty insurance men as "the human pincushion." Pleading guilty to grand larceny charges, Buono himself terminated for from two to five years at least, one of the fruitiest careers in modern insurance claim annals.

The "cards" were filing cards—the damning evidence collected through a country-wide index bureau system by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

The working details of Buono's racket are not yet clear. He was able to hoodwink insurance men, ambulance surgeons, hospital physicians, special medical examiners and other experts. He would arrive at a hospital apparently paralyzed from the waist down, unable to walk, to feel pin pricks, or to respond to other tests. This condition was usually induced by an automobile "accident" in which he was the only "victim." He collected $50,000 or more before the index bureau evidence stopped him.

As Major William P. Cavanaugh, of the National Bureau, Claim Department, has said: "The number of persons attempting to make a living cheating casualty companies is astonishing. We have broken up ring after ring of claim thieves. We have stopped the fraudulent activities of many unscrupulous doctors, lawyers and other individuals. But the lax moral attitude of many good people toward casualty insurance claims must change before we can complete our job."

The casualty companies have adopted the famous attitude: "Millions for defense, but not one cent for tribute." They deserve the support of everyone—particularly owners of insurance policies, who pay for every cent collected through claim rackets.

REAL ESTATE INVENTORY AND TAXATION

Under the CWA a real estate inventory is being made in certain key centers of the country. It is urged by the National Association of Real Estate Boards that the plan be broadened in some way to include all of the principal cities of the country. The suggestion is an excellent one. We believe that here is a job for the real estate exchanges of the country as the group best qualified to do the work and analyze the results. Tied up with this physical inventory is the question of taxation. Real estate is, at last, having some attention paid to its long-time complaint that it has been forced to carry an unfair part of the burden of taxation. It is not difficult to substantiate this claim, and this inventory affords an excellent opportunity to do so. Tied in also with this inventory idea is the future development of sound mortgaging, and it is perfectly evident that methods of mortgage appraising and methods of amortization of mortgages are going to change materially. The changes can be made on the basis of accurate knowledge if this inventory idea is carried to its logical conclusion, and we believe absolutely that the real estate boards of the different communities, backed by the National Association, are the logical ones to undertake this work on a very broad scale.

Banker and Tradesman.

The Century of Progress fair in Chicago ought to prove that some things travel in circles. For example, during the past hundred years we have gone from beer to home brew and then back to beer again.

A contest is to be held to see which light weight automobile will go farther on a gallon of gas. But what the average fellow is most interested in is how far it can go on the down payment.

We hope that one of the first things the coal men do under their new code will be to abolish clinkers.

NEW PLAY BY EUGENE
O'NEILL AT LIBRARY

"Days Without End", a new play by Eugene O'Neill is among the new books at the Robbins public library today.

This is called a modern miracle play and those who enjoy O'Neill's plays will find "Days Without End" most interesting. Other new additions at the library are:

Anderson, Maxwell. Mary of Scotland; a play in three acts. A Theatre Guild success.

Armer, Mrs. L. A. Cactus, with frontispiece in color and fifty illustrations in line by Sidney Armer. Particularly for those interested in identifying the desert growth, of the Southwest.

Binyon, Sir Lawrence. Collected poems of Lawrence Binyon. 2 vols. Vol. 1, Lyrical poems. Vol. 2, London visions. Narrative poems. Translations.

Coffin, R. P. T. Ballads of square-toed Americans. Yankee humor, as well as tragedy and courage.

Fawcett C. B. A. Political geography of the British empire. An examination of the geographical facts which have influence on the development and organization of the British Empire.

Mackay, C. D. A. Forest princess and other masques. Contains six masques for community use. McPherson, William. A Course in general chemistry, by William McPherson and William Edwards Henderson. 4th edition.

Nelson, J. H. ed. Contemporary trends; American literature since 1914 (American literature; a period anthology, v. 5)

Palm, F. C. Europe since Napoleon, by Franklin Charles Palm, with the assistance of Frederick E. Graham.

Sinclair, Gordon. Cannibal quest, illustrated with photographs and drawings. The author of Foot-loose in India visits Borneo, Mandalay, Bali and Baluchistan.

Tambs, Erling. The Cruise of the Teddy, intro. by Arthur Ransome. A four years' trip taken by a Norwegian novelist, his wife, two babies, and a dog from Norway to New Zealand where they were shipwrecked.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. Yearbook of agriculture, 1933, Milton S. Eisenhower, editor.

Young, W. E. Shark! Shark! the thirty-year odyssey of a pioneer shark hunter, by Captain William E. Young as told to Horace S. Mazet, with a foreword by Count Felix von Luckner, end papers and drawings of sharks by Helen Sewell.

Did You Ever
Stop To Thinkby
Edson R. White

W. F. Prisk, Editor of the Long Beach (Calif.) Press-Telegram, Says:

"Did you ever stop to think that advertising makes the balanced newspaper?"

Advertising balances the newspaper by acquainting readers with the latest developments in the markets as well as the latest happenings in Washington, in London, in Moscow, in the State Capital, the county seat and the home town.

"The housewife is interested in what the food stores are offering today, in what the department stores have to say about the progress of fashions as displayed in the 'show windows' of the advertising pages. Even the classified columns have their human interest stories.

"Because of this all-around service, the newspaper is the dominating advertising medium.

"Because advertising is as current as news—or should be—advertisers find the newspaper the most productive agency as measured by actual results. It is the dependable, day-by-day voice-piece of changes and bargains in the merchandising program.

"To achieve the best results, to be sure, advertising in newspapers must be attractive, newsy, consistent, truthful."

SPORT TOPICS

By BOB FOREST

Arlington High won what might be termed a moral victory over a strong Chelsea High team, and we really think that they might have taken the visitors if the game could have gone a few minutes longer.

There was no question but that the Red and Gray was still fresh while the Chelsea team was wondering where all the ginger and pepper was coming from. That Chelsea team was tired and it knew it had been in a game. It had failed to score one basket in the last period and had scored only two points.

Charlie Adams is no longer a member of the High School squad, and as far as we are concerned the thing is over, but if we hear any more of the whispering campaign that is going on against the High School basketball coach we are liable to take a hand, and we can promise you the results won't be nice.

Bill Lowder's record speaks for itself. He has won four games and lost four. The team is improving rather than getting worse as teams in the past year have been inclined to be. Chelsea had an easy time with Arlington the opening game.

When a bunch of Sophomore kids can hold a veteran team as Chelsea has to a ten point victory, imagine what these kids will be like in a year, or two and maybe three. The subs aren't anything to be sneezed at.

The Chelsea second team had previously lost only one game, and that was to Brockton seconds and yet Arlington's seconds beat Chelsea seconds by a point Friday night.

Ken Weidaw, Arlington High's brilliant half back and baseball pitcher went out for basketball last week and helped considerably in the victory which the seconds ran up. Ken has been out due to a football injury received in the Brookline game last fall. He was anything but smooth Friday night, but with another week of practice he will be as good as ever. Baseball fans hope that Ken's injured shoulder will heal. He assured us that it has.

Lauren Phinney former Arlington High basketball star is recovering from a dislocated hand which he rec'd in an Amateur Basketball League game last week when he was in collision with a player during the game.

Eddie Collins of the Red Sox may be present at a dance to be run by the Arlington Baseball Club on Lincoln's Birthday at the Town Hall. The proceeds of this dance will be used to buy uniforms for the team next spring.

The Arleast Club ran a dance Friday night that was a success in every way. We aren't trying to kid you. You can't buy space in this column and we are only stating a fact. This club is giving great promise and we can see a long future for it. But that dance was a peach. If they run more dances they will surely be welcome. Everyone had a good time.

Dinger McLean the "Big Train" of football whose grid-iron days at Arlington ended so tragically is up and around again. He has put on all the weight he lost and is looking as good as ever. We hope to see him play football in college some day.

Arthur Cardinal outpointed Leo Curley in a hard bout at the Boston Garden Friday night. A large number of Arlington fight fans saw him do battle at the weight of 177 pounds. Oh what a man.

The Arlington High basketball team wound up the first half of its season just even. They had lost no more than they had won. Four up. A great record considering that not one member of the squad of last year played in the Chelsea game.

We haven't seen the Arlington High girls' basketball team play this year, but from what we have heard they must be having a fairly good season. Last year they failed to lose a game, we heard they are trying to equal that fine season this year.

In Fact, A Positive Fad

By IRVIN S. COBB

ON THE night before the fatal day a clergyman sat with the prisoner striving by counsel and admonition to prepare him for the ordeal.

"My brother, my poor brother," said the minister, soothingly, "try to face the fate which confronts you on the morrow with courage and resolution. Remember that thousands and thousands before you all through the ages, some justly and some unjustly condemned, have suffered this same punishment with fortitude. Even the early Christian martyrs died much as you must die."

"Yas, suh, I knows," quavered the condemned, "but—but it was a hobby with them."

Finding Lost Sailors Hobby of "Mother" Roper

The Port of Missing Men

Mrs. Janet "Mother" Roper

One of the world's most unique jobs—that of tracing missing seamen—is the self-appointed task of Mrs. Jane ("Mother") Roper, matron of the Seaman's Institute, New York. For 40 years, Mrs. Roper has traced wanderers before the mast over the seven seas and into every corner of the world where ships sail. On her "Missing List" at the institute are hundreds of names and photos of men whom she seeks and of whom, sooner or later, she will hear. For she has friends in every port in the world who aid her in her work. Since 1920 Mrs. Roper has traced no less than 5,000 seamen who had been given up for lost. She has also been the means of restoring many a farm lad to the family he left over some little difficulty, for she is "Mother Confessor" to the great army of seafarers who visit New York every year.

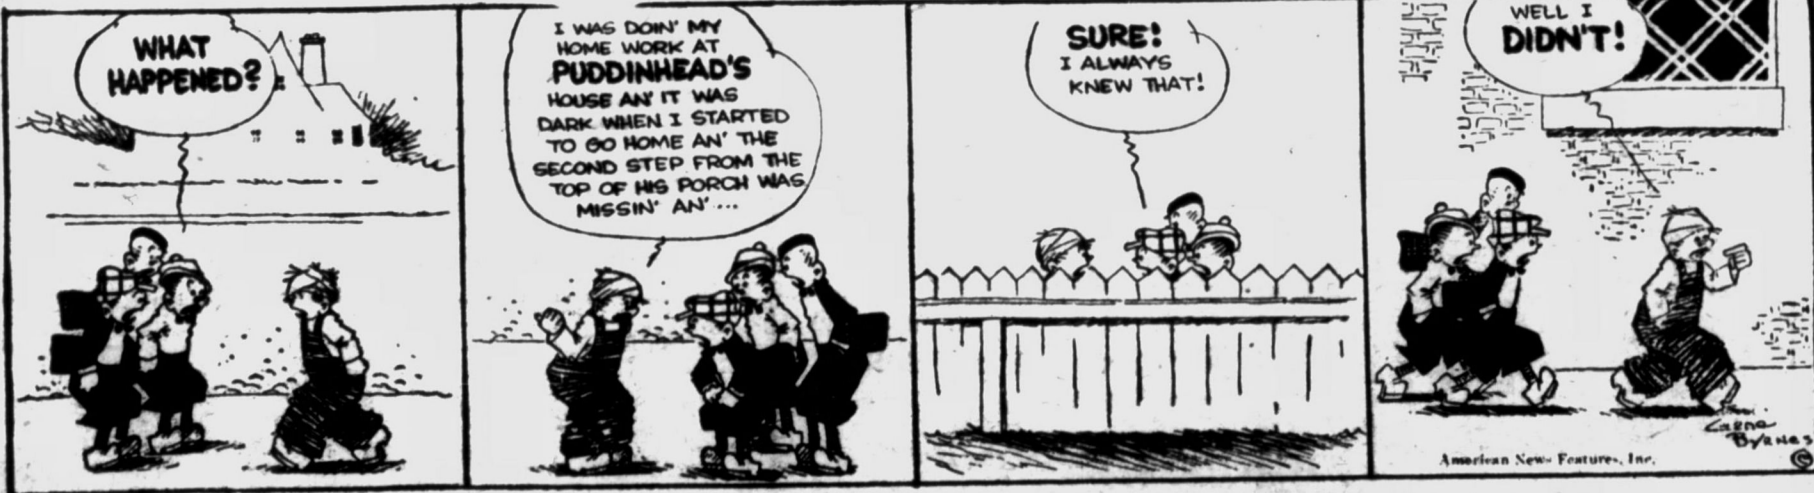

Won Crusade for U. S. Navy "Second to None"

Thunderous chorus of "ayes" that passed the Vinson Naval Bill through the House was a personal triumph for its sponsor, Representative Carl Vinson, of Georgia, chairman of the House Committee on Naval Affairs; Colonel Henry Roosevelt, Acting Secretary of the Navy; Admiral William Standley, Chief of Naval Operations, and Rear Admiral Ernest J. King, Chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics, all of whom long have advocated a navy second to none. The bill calls for construction of 102 fighting ships, which will bring the U. S. Navy up to strength permitted by London Treaty, by 1939. It also authorizes building of 1,184 new planes, scouting craft and super-bombers, for the Navy. The entire program will cost between $475,000,000 and $570,000,000.

CIRCUS CHIEF ORDERS
"FULL SPEED AHEAD"

Things look bright along the road to that Samuel W. Gumpertz, general manager of the Ringling circus combine, in headquarters for the winter at Sarasota, Fla., has ordered "full speed ahead" in preparing for the 1934 tours of the company's three circuses. He said he expects "banner seasons" for the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus, the Hagenback Wallace Shows and the Al G. Barnes Circus.

Gumpertz is preparing contracts for several new European acts and ordered all hands to "get going".

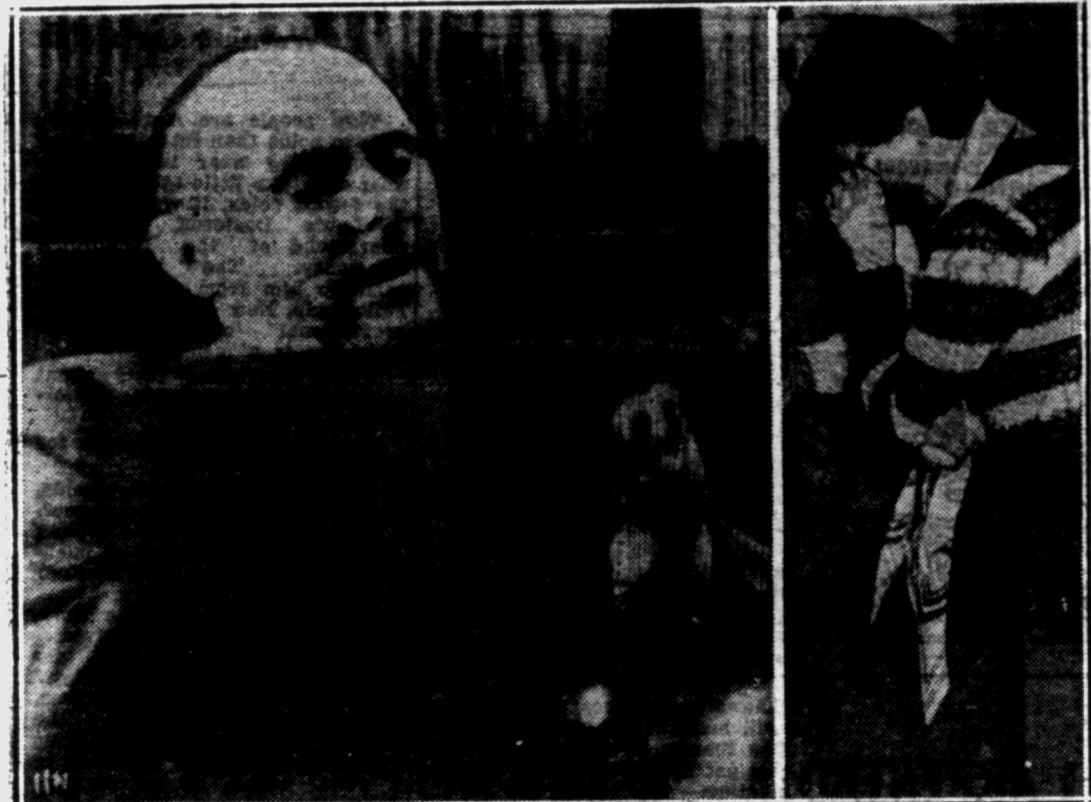

Some 300 men were ordered back to work at the winter quarters and all departments are functioning with painters, carpenters, decorators, wardrobe workers, property men, car repair men and other workers on the job. Animal training is under way in earnest. Contracting agents for the Ringling combine, who have been on the road sometime, reported to Gumpertz that the public again is eager for amusement and is willing to pay for it with more money available in every section.

As has been the custom of many years the first stand of the season for "the big show" will be Madison Square Garden, New York, for 22 days, opening in the first week of April, thence Boston for a week and back to Brooklyn for a like period under canvas. The Hagenback-Wallace shows will open in Chicago Coliseum about the middle of April while the Barnes shows will open at San Diego, Calif., the last week in March.

In Sarasota, beginning of preparations for sending "the big show" out on the road is a signal for an influx of performers who practice here and the return of working men who have been vacationed since the closing of the show last October 24 in Miami.

via the front entrance. Although Belmont threatened Arlington they were at no time in position to score. Arlington was shy a man a number of times due to the over-zealous Joe Gardella who was tossed in the cooler three times.

Coach Charlie Downes being on the sick list, the job of running the team was given over to Ray Burke former successful Arlington High hockey coach. Mr. Burke celebrated his once again being coach with another victory added to his long string at Arlington High.

Mee who is a peculiar habit of scoring, took a pass from Lax as the game ended and drove it in at the time of 11:00 in the last period. The bell rang as the shot left his stick. The Belmont team had been trying a five man offense to tie-up the score and a poke check by Lax with a quick jump gave the final score. The goal was in doubt for a minute but much to the surprise of all the eminent Doc Mooney voted for Arlington.

Arlington High is fourth in standing and will stay that way the remainder of the year. There is little indication that a change is possible, as the four top teams are playing the second division next week and will probably all win.

The summary of Saturday's game:

Arlington—Mee, Byrne, rw; Lax, Gardella, c; Norberg, Sullivan, lw; Collins, rd; Lane, ld; Sakolan, g.

Belmont — Gruba, Olive, lw; Jameson, Keefe, c; Grotjohn, Maloon, rw; McCurdy, ld; Campbell, rd; Morris, g.

Score, Arlington 2. Goals—Second period, Byrne (Lane) 6:52. Third period, Mee (Lax) 11:00. Penalties, Lane (illegal check), McCurdy (interference), Gardella (tripping), Gardella (board check). Referees, Gordon and Mahoney. Time, three 12m periods.

CRASH SENDS FIVE TO HOSPITAL; 1 ARRESTED

Six persons were injured, three of them women, and the driver of one car was arrested for drunkenness after a crash early yesterday in Pleasant st. near Concord ave., Belmont.

The injured women were Mrs. Janette Maraghy, 27, of 18 Alfred rd., Belmont; Mary B. Collins, 26, of the same address; and Dorothy M. Higgins, 24, of 18 Oakdale st. Medway. All suffered cuts and bruises and Miss Collins received a broken leg. They were taken to the Symmes hospital here.

In the car with them were Mrs. Maraghy's husband, Hugh, and Arthur C. Weiss, 31, of Walker st., Somerville. Both men were taken to the Cambridge hospital suffering from cuts and bruises.

Joseph Tangney, 31, a salesman, of 1855 Commonwealth ave., Auburndale, driver of the other car, was arrested by Belmont police charged with drunkenness.

DEEP SNOW SUITS MAINE RABBITS

The hardest winter in years in northern Maine is a boon to native rabbits, which are growing fat and strong on the tops of small trees, placed within their reach by the great depth of the snow. In the ordinary winter they find scant fare on the bare trunks and lower branches.

Their protective white winter coloring combines with the deep snow to conceal them from hungry foxes and owls. Despite the shipping of thousands of rabbits out of the county last year, the hard winter is giving them plenty of food for a new and vigorous start.

Deep, on the other hand, are having the hardest winter in 10 years, the deep snow hindering them from foraging in the woods for food.

lent part of the town, being, at the top of a high hill in an outlying section, and that there are no conveniences there for the comfort of the skaters.

On the other hand, Spy Pond is larger and more attractive and is located in the heart of the town, handy to street cars and stores; and, what is of paramount importance, it is convenient for the majority of skaters. Beside this, there is a house at Spy Pond for the skaters to lounge in when not skating. This is well heated and cared for by its proprietor.

This same Park Commissioner, with whom I talked, told me that because Spy Pond is not owned by Arlington, it was not within his jurisdiction to remove the snow from it. He said that if I wanted it cleared, I might be able to borrow or rent a horse from a certain coal company and in like manner obtain the use of a snow plow from an ice company. He also added that in his opinion it would be a wonderful thing if somebody would clear the snow from Spy Pond for the skaters. However, he did not say who he thought should hold the reins while the horse pulled said plow. I think it would be a great idea if we used Selectmen instead of horses for this job and put the Park Commissioners back of the plow.

It is ridiculous to think that because Arlington does not own Spy Pond it is beyond its power to keep the ice in condition there for the skaters. I am certain that the Commonwealth of Massachusetts will not object if the town performs this work.

Surely it is a wonderful thing, worthy of serious thought, that for a small sum of money, the young people of Arlington can indulge in a sport which exercises every muscle in the body, which requires balance and self-control and which enables them without danger to their neighbors, to satisfy their love of speed and contempt of danger amid surroundings of unsurpassable loveliness. I hope that somebody who knows the proper steps to take will make it his business to help the thousands of Arlington skaters get Spy Pond conditioned for skating. The season for skating is comparatively short. For that reason when ice is available it should be made usable for the skaters by keeping a rink in good condition. The skaters are reasonable in their demands; they are not asking for all out-of-doors. All that they desire is a rink suitable for the crowd that skates there.

The old fogies who run this town need stirring. Half of them are dead from the heels up. Probably none of them can remember when their joints were limber enough to take pleasure in skating. And for the benefit of those who do not know what skating is, may I add the following definition: Skating is movement on ice made by means of instruments composed of steel blades which are fastened to the soles of the shoes, and which are called skates.

During the next few weeks aspirants for public office will be knocking at our doors, begging votes. This is our chance to put into office a new crowd of men who may give the young people of Arlington some of the things that they want.

I should like to hear from every aspirant for the office of Park Commissioner in regard to the subject of ice skating on Spy Pond. This paper will gladly print and all replies which are of public interest.

And now fellow skaters, get busy and add your opinion to this discussion. Let us see if we cannot by public propaganda awaken our town fathers from their mid-winter state of lethargy.

Yours very truly,
Edward J. O'Connor.

Beef Birds

2 pounds round steak
4 or 5 medium-sized carrots
1 tablespoon butter
Flour
Salt
Pepper

Have the round steak cut about 1-2 inch thick and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cut it into as nearly as possible rectangular pieces 2 1-2 by 4 inches in size. Partially cook the carrots in boiling salted water. Wrap a piece of round steak around each one and fasten with skewers. Dredge with flour and brown slightly in butter. Then add a small amount of water, cover, and let cook slowly until the meat is very tender.

Pharmacist Gives Warning On Colds

Thin people are more susceptible to colds than fat people, and persons who wear little underwear and take little exercise have the fewest colds, it was revealed by Louis Doctoroff registered pharmacist of the Doctoroff's Pharmacy. The information came to him from the A. D. S. Fellowship, New York, a national professional organization of which he is a member.

Other interesting facts about colds pointed out by Mr. Doctoroff:

January is the peak month for colds.

Children catch the most colds, but adults catch the harder ones.

Fifty per cent of all disabling diseases and 75 percent of pneumonia start with a cold in their early stages.

Office workers are nine times as cold ridden as taxi drivers.

The average person in the United States loses 2 1-5 days' work because of colds every year.

This figure multiplied by the number at present employed gives a total of 88,000,000 days lost in a year, which, at an average daily wage of, say, $3.50 brings the loss to industry to about $300,000,000. Add to this the additional estimated loss of $50,000,000 as the result of efficiency and the cost of medicines and medicinal care and the annual monetary loss reaches more than $750,000,000. That is to say, the common cold, though rarely fatal, costs America well over three-quarters of a billion dollars each year.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage given by George K. Hurd, of Cambridge, Middlesex County, and Commonwealth of Massachusetts to the Guardian Co-operative Bank, a corporation duly established under the laws of Massachusetts and having its usual place of business in Boston, Suffolk County, Massachusetts, which mortgage is dated September 16th, 1933 and recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 5756, Page 325, for breach of the conditions contained in said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, and all the right in equity to any person having any title or interest in the granted premises to redeem same, there will be sold at public auction on the mortgaged premises in Arlington, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, and hereinafter described on Friday, March 2, 1934, at twelve o'clock noon all and singular the premises conveyed by the said mortgage, namely:

"The land in Arlington, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, with the buildings thereon, shown as lot 57 on a plan of Newland Park, Arlington Heights, dated June 29th, 1928 C. H. Gannett, C. E. recorded with Middlesex South District Deeds, Book 5357, Page 509, and bounded according to said plan, westerly by Summer Street 49.7 feet; northerly by lot 58 on said plan, 97.4 feet; easterly by lot 56 on said plan, 45.1 feet; and southerly by lot 41 on said plan, 79.4 feet; containing 3,973 square feet according to said plan. Said premises are hereby conveyed subject to any restrictions of record so far as now in force and applicable. Being the same premises conveyed to me by the Guardian Co-operative Bank by deed of even date to be recorded herewith."

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all taxes, tax titles and other municipal liens and municipal assessments, if any there be. Five Hundred ($500) Dollars will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale and the balance of the purchase price within ten (10) days thereafter.
